

Jennifer Wilcox, a third-year Anthropology student, participates in a class at home through the technology of teleconferencing. Special arrangements were made through the Faculty of Part-Time and Continuing Education to enable Wilcox, injured in a recent tobogganing accident, to continue her studies at home. Wilcox says the support she has received from everyone at the University is "just fantastic" and she hopes to graduate at Spring Convocation in June.