

THIS serigraph by Haida artist Robert Davidson is one of more than 75 silk-screen prints on display at McIntosh Gallery beginning July 15.

West Coast Indian artist featured in McIntosh show

A collection of West Coast Indian Art will be on display at McIntosh Gallery July 15 to August 14.

The exhibition entitled "Cycles" will feature 76 silk-screen prints by 35-year-old Haida artist Robert Davidson. The silk-screen prints are abstracted designs that represent various aspects of Haida life, using red, blue, black and white colors.

Mr. Davidson comes from a family of artists and is also involved in sculptural art, including silver and gold jewelry.

The silk-screen prints on display at McIntosh will be divided into four different periods of the artist's life. Hence, the title "Cycles".

Also on display will be several photographs and text panels.

A 47-minute film made in 1914 will be shown at noon during the first three days of the exhibition. Entitled "In the Land of the War Canoes", the film deals with the West Coast Indians and will be of interest to both history buffs, and those curious about early filmmaking.
